Membership News

President's Message

I am happy to report that Gunter Mair's revision of his invaluable book on airmail etiquettes is proceeding apace. He hasn't given me a final release date but hopes it will be toward the end of this year. I have seen a sample and it will be fantastic. Stay tuned!

Please help Bas bring you the best possible Bulletin by sending him articles or comments. It is important that we have worldwide input.

Our next meeting will be held during next year's International Exhibition in New York (May 28-June 4). We have a meeting time of Saturday, May 29 at 11 AM. The precise venue will be announced in due course.

We are still experiencing below freezing morning temperatures here in the Northeast. I hope by the time you get this everyone will be comfortable and looking forward to a relaxing summer. Except, of course, our members down under!

Additions to previous issues

In addition to his note on Australian registration labels in the previous issue of PLB Kevin Burt send a correction and a question:

1) Where it is said "Label not previously recorded..." it is now clear that this label is a printed PO label, illustration herewith:

(9th Australian Scout Jamboree, Leppington, NSW)

2) Have any members come across this label from Tabubil, the description reads "This post office has been using large - 45mm x 80mm registration (EMS) labels since early 1992. The first number was 0500. The larger labels are designed for use on parcels, but not solely".

The quote is from Papua New Guinea Calling, June 1993. No colour/s are mentioned. Illustration herewith.

In the article on duty labels only one label indicating customs clearance for the USA could be shown. Jack Brandt sent images of two other labels. In total four different labels have been found now:

These two labels are the same except for the reference numbers, respectively: 5-119054 and 16-40274-1.

It is quite possible that more reference numbers could be found.

This label is from Chicago instead New York. Could it be that also offices in other (major) cities have used similar labels?

These labels seemed to be used only on parcels and are therefore hard to come by. Wrappings of parcels have indeed been rarely preserved.

In the previous issue a mysterious Dutch stamp (or label) was shown. The meaning of it has now become clear.

With the help of others I found the answer:

This label was used to seal a damaged envelop.

Knowing this, now it is striking, even on the scan, that something is wrong with the envelop. That is probably also the reason why the address is written again.

Over the label is placed a marking (difficult to see) which says: Postoffice the Hague, parcel post.

Unlike the US label for instance, on the Dutch label it isn't stated that it is used for sealing a damage.

Airmail labels

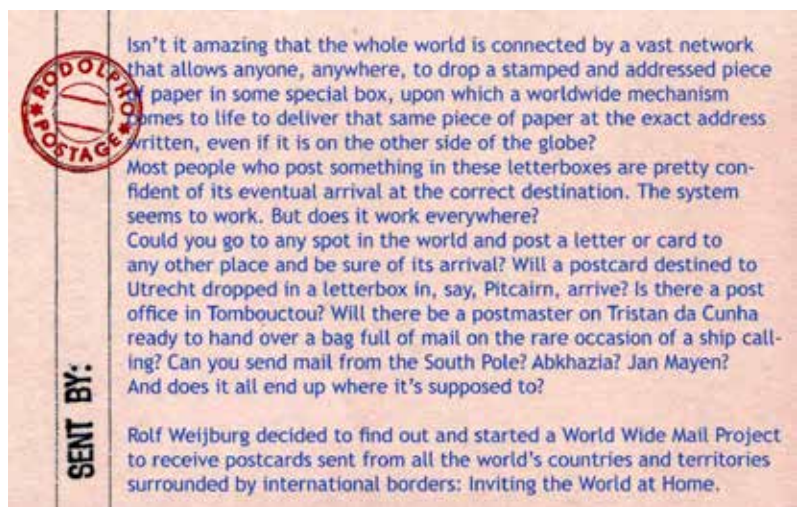

Jack Brandt sent the image of a remarkable postcard he received: "It was the first one I had seen, and I wonder if more exist". Please respond!

This postcard reminded me of an fascinating book published in the Netherlands in 2009: "Inviting the world at home. A survey of the world's postal links to the Netherlands", by Rolf Weijburg.

The book consists of 400 photo collages from 400 countries or remarkable places in the world, in which a postcard from a country to the author in the Netherlands is the centre. Although the book is ment as an art project without any philatelic intention, it shows a multitude of AML's. The inside of the cover of the book is similar to Jack's postcard.

This is the page about Iran, arbitrarily chosen from the book. Mostly on the photos a mailbox or a post office is shown. Unfortunately, the shown AML is not an Iranian but Turkish one.

On V-registration labels

Peter Carpenter sent images of a variety of labels. One of them is a Dutch label with the word “waarde”, meaning ‘value’. The French word ‘valeur déclarée’ is omitted because this label is only for national use. There are several of them like:

But also for international use:

The second one is from the Netherlands Indies; there reference numbers were used that differ from the Dutch ones.

What is the connection with V-registration labels? I surmise that a country either use labels with ‘valeur déclarée’ in combination with an R-label or V-labels. Here are some examples:

From Austria, 90s, (reduced size)
 Adressee in Germany, although label is only in French

Part of parcel wrapping, from France, 1932
 (reduced size)
 Adressee in Perpignan, France

From Belgium, document for transport by train, therefore (?) no R-label
 Adressee also in Belgium
 Label has three languages, because it regards Belgium

this cover is from the Dutch postal service:
 PTT, and used for internal purposes, therefore no stamp on it.

Are there any members who specialize in V-labels? Please let us know.

Auction

If you wish to view a lot or lots, request via e-mail, the lot numbers to me. I will return your e-mail with attachments of these lots (up to 10 lots per e-mail, if my server will permit that size). Booklets will not be opened for scans, backs of lots will not be scanned. Scans may not show accurate size and color. If you like this service, please let me know. My e-mail address is in the masthead of the Bulletin. Feel free to ask questions!
